Moreover, approved guidance and codes as issued by the Environment Agency and other interested organisations, such as Oil and Gas UK and IMCA, shall be adopted as a matter of best practice, wherever their implementation is practical and without disproportionate financial penalty. As part of the company's commitment to continual improvement of its environmental management, the company undertakes to implement and operate the ISO 14001 Environmental Management System.

All employees and sub-contractors are expected to be aware of the requirements of and assist in the implementation of this policy whilst ensuring that their own works, so far as is reasonably practicable, are carried out without risk to themselves, others or the environment. This includes co-operating with management on any environment related matter.

Gardline will take all reasonable steps to ensure that potential hazards and risks to the environment are identified and that suitable and effective preventive and control measures are implemented. All employees will be provided with the resources, equipment, information, instruction and training necessary to fulfil the requirements of this policy.

The policy will be communicated to all relevant parties internally and externally via electronic means and written means as necessary. It will be reviewed at each Management Review meeting and at other times as the need arises.
